Sustainable corrugated board

At the heart of everything we do

As a company with strong family values, we feel responsible for future generations. As part of the Stora Enso family, this responsibility is now even more pronounced. Just like Stora Enso we believe that everything that is made from fossil-based materials today can be made from a tree tomorrow.

Sustainable business practices:

De Jong Packaging is committed to reducing CO₂ emissions and minimizing waste on a daily basis. For instance, all waste generated during the production process is collected, baled and recycled for further use. Our factories and offices are designed with sustainability in mind. Solar panels on the roof generate energy, and the residual heat from our corrugators is efficiently utilized to heat our offices.

Conscious customers:

We encourage our customers to use FSC-certified board and support them in achieving their sustainability goals. By choosing our environmentally friendly and circular products, our customers can achieve their climate goals, such as reducing plastic use and promoting circular packaging.

Community involvement:

Through our community involvement, we aim not only to reduce our environmental footprint but also to actively contribute to a healthy and prosperous community. We support a range of local and regional sporting, cultural and educational initiatives, including local sports clubs that promote sportsmanship and community cohesion.

Sustainable production:

We value responsible forest management and strive for fair and environmentally responsible procurement. The paper reels used in the corrugated board production process consist of 85% recycled material. The remaining raw material comes from Stora Enso's sustainably managed forests.

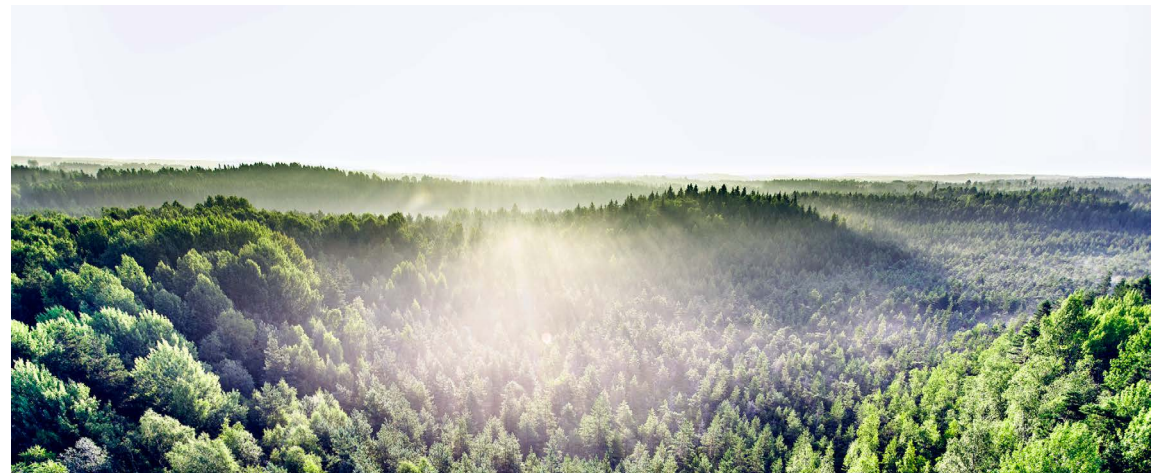

Sustainable employment:

We invest in the safety and well-being of our employees. A safe, diverse, and inclusive working environment is our top priority. We strive to create an environment where our colleagues feel at home, with a focus on safety, hygiene, and general wellbeing.
